GENERAL PLAN

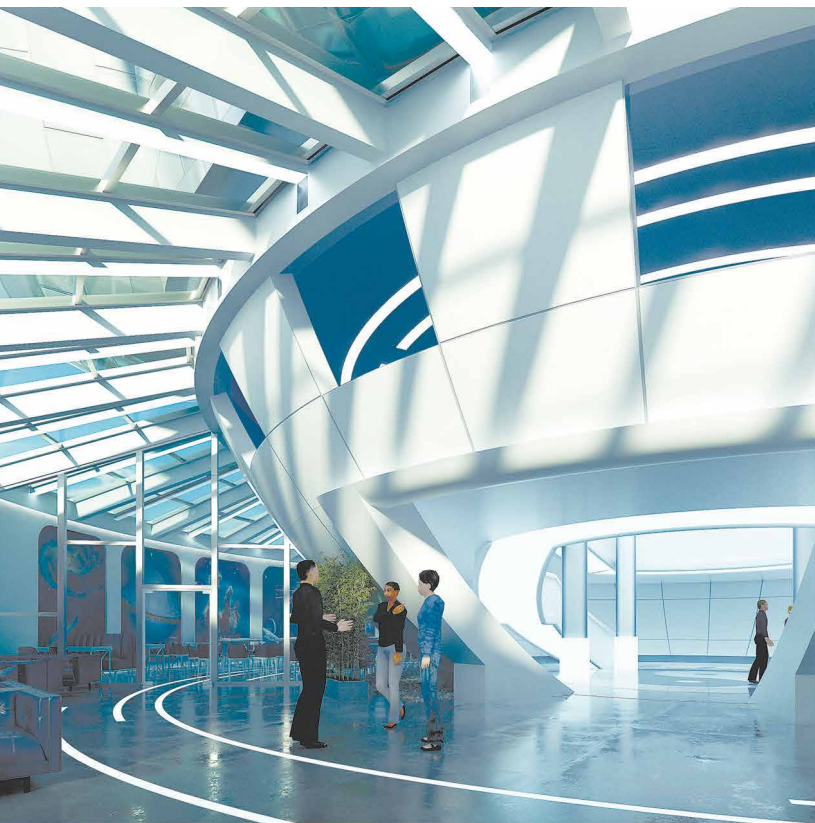

ARCHITECTURAL APPEARANCE

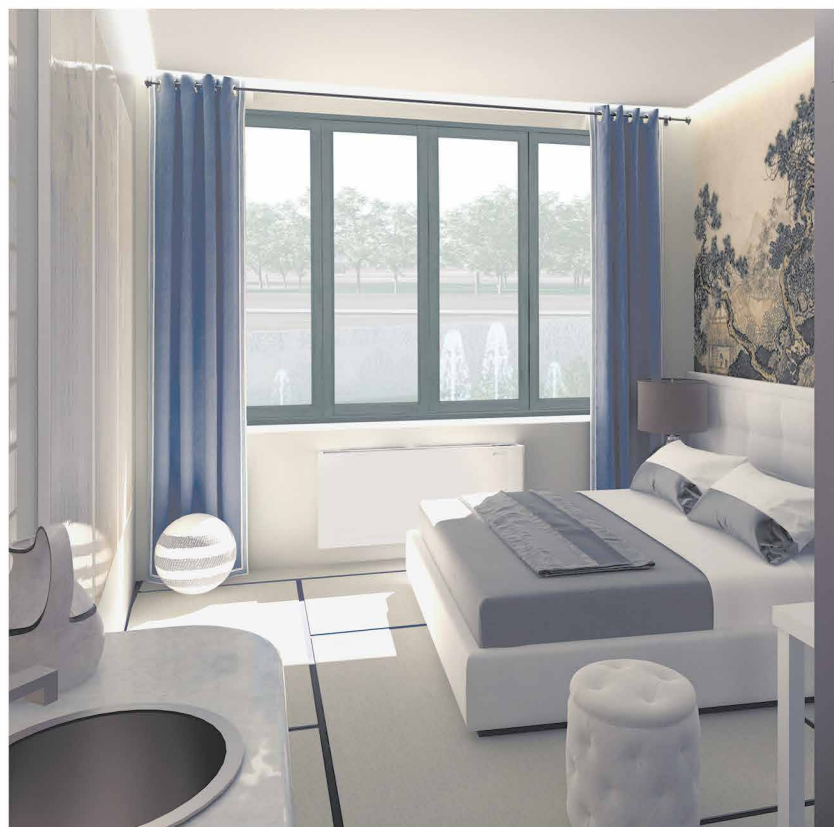

The image is a complex circular floor plan of a building, possibly a hotel or a large office. At the center is a circular area containing a large Yin-Yang symbol. Surrounding this central area are several concentric rings of rooms and corridors. Each room is labeled with a number and a set of coordinates (e.g., 16, 36,73). The layout is highly symmetrical, with a central core and concentric rings of rooms. A 'Reception' area is located at the bottom center. The plan includes various furniture and fixtures, such as tables, chairs, and beds, indicating different types of rooms and common areas. The overall design is intricate and detailed, showing the spatial organization of the building.
